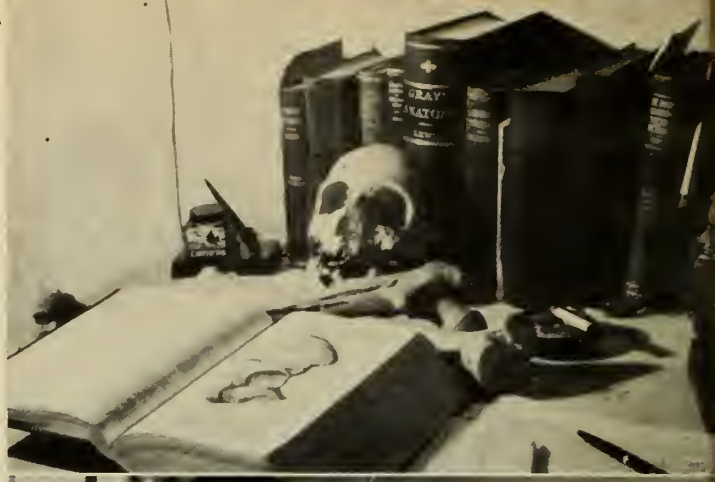
THE MEDIC OF 1943



FOREWORD

The busy days ahead may draw the curtain of forgetfulness across the hours of today and yesterday. In the coming years, this book may serve to recall pleasant memories . . . those forgotten faces . . . successes . . . failures . . . happy moments. We wish to thank those who so willingly gave their time and effort to help produce this book under many handicaps. We trust that our efforts will not have been in vain.

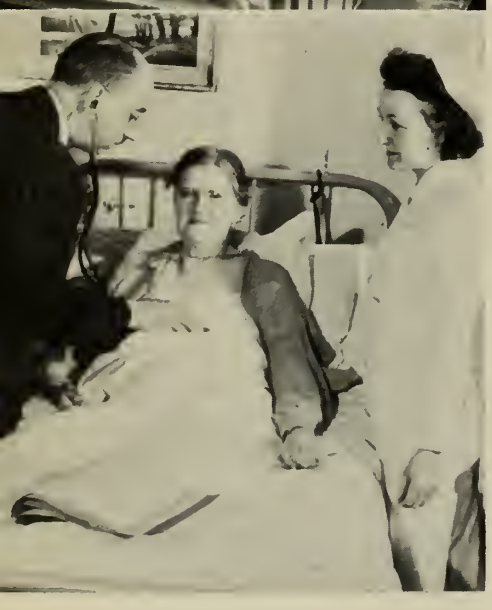
OUR DEDICATION . . .



Dr. Lowell L. Lane, having graduated from the Hahnemann Medical College in 1928, began teaching here in 1932. From that time on he has served well, both as a teacher in the art of diagnosis and medicine, and as an excellent physician who is admired by all who know him.

We like to remember his concise and scholarly lectures, his endless patience, and his remarkable wisdom. We are, therefore, proud to dedicate this book to him.

Dean

WILLIAM A. PEARSON,
Ph.D., M.D., Sc.D., LL.D.

Our Dean—a gentleman and a scholar! He is well qualified to represent Hahnemann on any grounds. He followed our progress throughout our four years and was always at hand when we sought advice. Ph.C., University of Michigan, 1900; Ph.D., University of Michigan, 1902; M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1915; Sc.D., LaSalle College, 1926; LL.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1935; American Chemistry Society, American Pharmaceutical Association, American Association of Clinical Research, American Institute of Homeopathy.

Provost

FREDERIC J. VON RAPP,
Litt.D., LL.D.

With this man rests the responsibility of coordination. No minor task is his, for it is through his quick, efficient and diplomatic management that our vast machine runs daily without a hitch. He knows his job. He does it well. We salute a busy man!

Medical Director

RALPH W. PLUMMER,
M.D., F.A.C.S.

His office is way back on the hospital's first floor and few of us have the pleasureable opportunity to meet and become acquainted with the little man who officiates as Hahnemann Hospital's Medical Director. Because of his keen executive ability, "The Greater Hahnemann" has shown remarkable progress and is enjoying an excellent reputation. His friendly and dynamic personality will both thrill and amaze you.

Medical Affairs

HARRY M. EBERHARD,
M.A., M.D., LL.D.

Because of his help "The 1943 Medic" became a reality. He realized what our yearbook meant to us. In a man of his calibre, one places confidence and rests assured of his sympathetic understanding. We, his "boys," shall always remember that he never "let us down." M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1898; Germantown Medical Society, Pi Upsilon Rho, Fellow of the American Gastroenterological Association. He is Vice-President of Medical Affairs at Hahnemann.

Anatomy

THOMAS W. PHILLIPS, M.D.

His kind, gentlemanly manner, together with his practical application of Anatomy, made our pursuit of this subject both pleasant and interesting. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1916; University of Pennsylvania, 1923; St. Mark's, London, 1923; Post-Graduate Proctology, Pi Upsilon Rho, American Institute of Homeopathy, American Association for Advancement of Science.

Histology

THOMAS M. SNYDER, M.D.

We remember him with great admiration and affection. His teachings inspired us, his humor tickled us, his advice gave us courage to return for the second semester. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1916; Pi Upsilon Rho, Clinical Professor of Ophthalmology, Assistant in Ophthalmological Pathology, Ophthalmologist to Hahnemann Hospital.

Physiology

JOHN C. SCOTT, A.B., Ph.D.

In his quiet, scholarly, observant manner he helped us through a difficult but important course. Every month those exams plagued us—but we learned our physiology! A.B., University of Montana, 1923; Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1929; American Psychological Society.

Pharmacology

REINHARD BEUTNER, Ph.D., M.D.

He covered everything but the floors of the lecture rooms with showcards containing formulae and pharmaceutical specimens, but he gave us the "meat" of the subject in his own inimitable way. Ph.D., M.D., University of Berlin, 1936; International Research Anesthesia Society, American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics.

Pathology

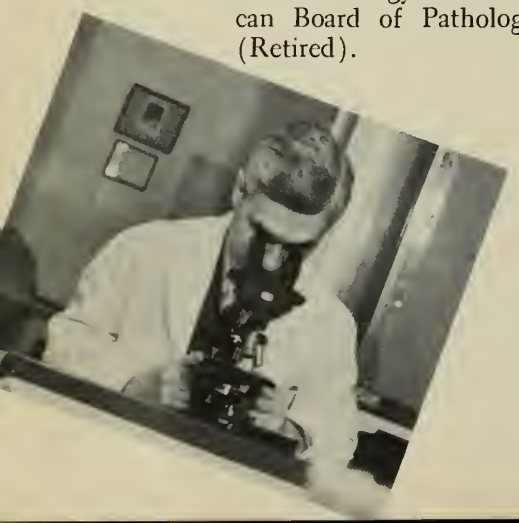
SAMUEL W. SAPPINGTON,
M.D., F.A.C.P., D.Sc.

He was always at his best and we reaped the benefit of his untiring efforts. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1897; Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, American Institute of Homeopathy, Philadelphia Pathological Society, American Association of Immunologists, American Society of Clinical Pathologists, Pathologist to Hahnemann Hospital.

Bacteriology

GRANT O. FAVORITE,
B.S., M.D., F.A.C.P.

His friendly smile and kindly attitude put us at ease even when perplexing problems arose. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1927; American Public Health Association, American Society of Clinical Pathologists, Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, Diplomate American Board of Pathology, Major M.C., A.U.S. (Retired).



Oncology

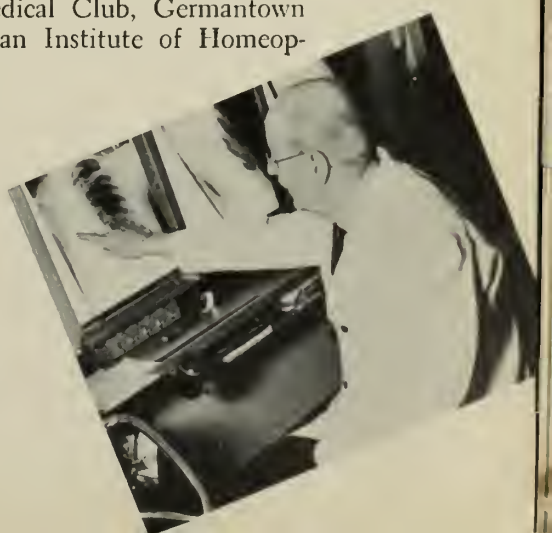
STANLEY P. REIMANN,
A.B., M.D., Sc.D., F.A.C.P.

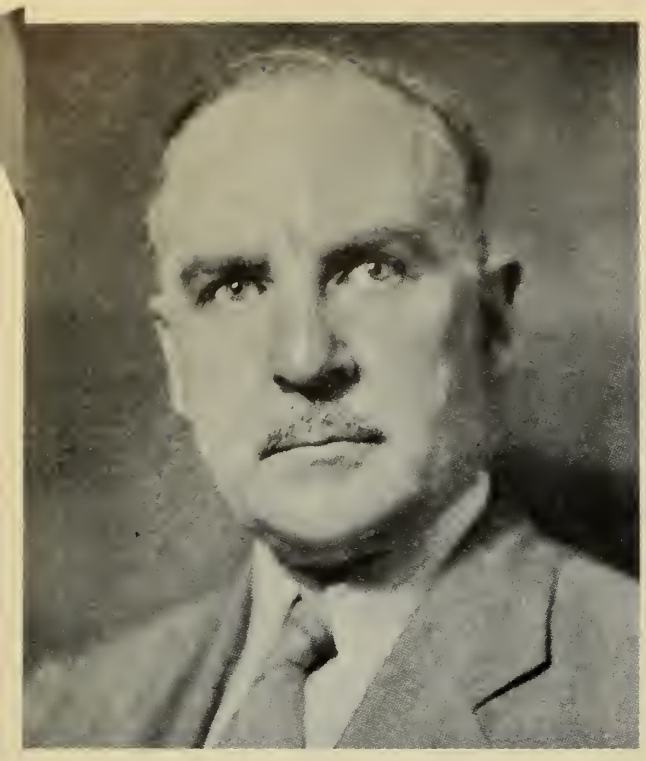
He enlightened us in Oncology and now we know that "oats, peas, beans and corn may also develop tumors." M.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1913; Chief of the Division of Cancer Control of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health, Federation of Biological Societies, Director of the Lankenau Hospital Research Institute.

Roentgenology

JACOB WILLIAM FRANK, M.D.

Because of his painstaking endeavors and his love for Hahnemann, we have one of the outstanding departments of Roentgenology in the country. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1905; Radiologic Society of North America, American Roentgen Ray Society, Philadelphia Medical Club, Aesculapian Medical Club, Germantown Medical Club, American Institute of Homeopathy.





Therapeutics

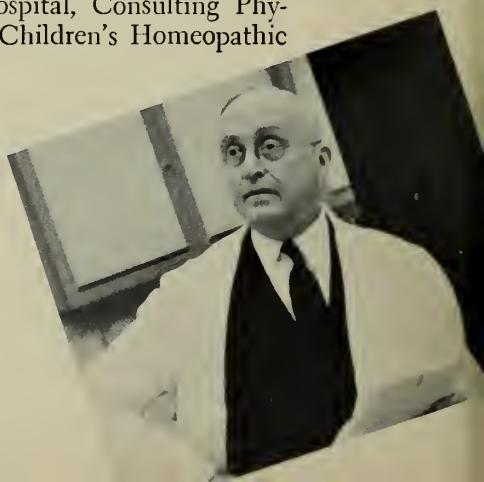
GARTH WILKINSON BOERICKE, M.D.

We shall remember him for his unusual ability to speak extemporaneously on most any subject and for those bedside "nuggets" we received on ward rounds. M.D., University of Michigan, 1918; Alpha Sigma, Past President American Institute of Homeopathy, Physician to Hahnemann Hospital, Director of Constantine Hering Laboratory.

Pediatrics

CHARLES SIGMUND RAUE, A.M., M.D.

Our interest in Pediatrics was increased because of his sincere efforts to present a well-rounded course. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1895; Philadelphia Pediatric Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Physician to Children at Hahnemann Hospital, Consulting Physician to St. Luke's and Children's Homeopathic Hospital.



Medicine

G. HARLAN WELLS,
B.S., M.D., F.A.C.P., D.Sc.

He gave us confidence in our own ability as medical men because he believed in us. B.S., University of Delaware, 1898; M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1902; D.Sc., University of Delaware, 1934; Pi Upsilon Rho, Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, Physician-in-Chief to Hahnemann Hospital.

Dermatology

RALPH BERNSTEIN, M.D., F.A.C.P.

We shall never forget his course. What more can we say? M.D., University of Pennsylvania, 1903; M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1904; Fellow American Academy of Dermatology and Syphilology, Pi Upsilon Rho, Society for Investigative Dermatology, Society of Forensic Medicine, American Medical Authors Association.

Obstetrics

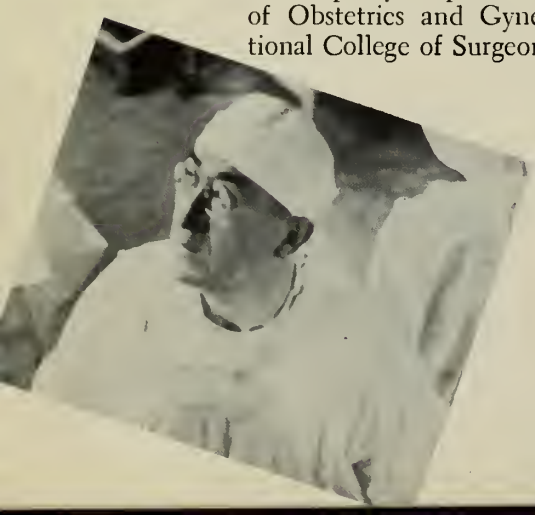
NEWLIN F. PAXSON,
B.S., M.D., F.A.C.S.

Sincere, conscientious, and understanding—he had the students' point of view. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1919; Alpha Sigma, Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, American Institute of Homeopathy, Philadelphia County Medical Society, Pennsylvania State Medical Society, Philadelphia Obstetrical Society, Diplomate American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Gynecology

EARL BURREL CRAIG, M.D., F.A.C.S.

We shall always remember his operative clinics —they were symphonies of technical perfection. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1906; Jefferson Medical College, 1908; Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, American Institute of Homeopathy, Diplomate of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Fellow International College of Surgeons (Geneva).



Surgery

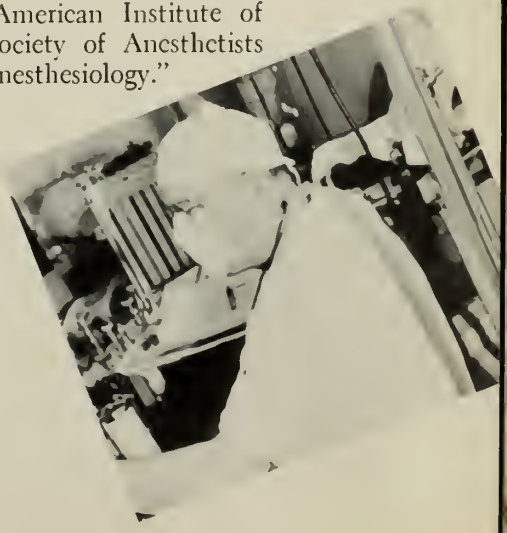
WILLIAM L. MARTIN,
B.S., M.D., F.A.C.S.

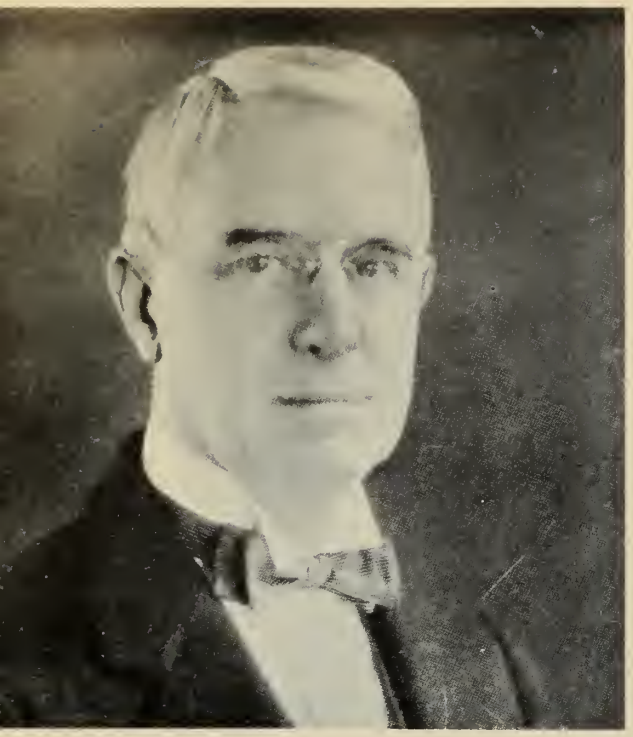
His lectures and clinics always gave us the most modern concepts of surgery in a manner readily understood. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1915; Diplomate American Board of Surgery, Phi Alpha Gamma, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania State Medical Society, Union League, Commander M.C. V. (G) U.S.N.R.

Anesthesia

HENRY S. RUTH, B.S., M.D., F.A.C.A.

He lectured on Anesthesia, but his rapid-fire, "commando" style kept everyone awake. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1923; Apha Sigma, Phi Sigma Kappa, Ptolemy, Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, American Institute of Homeopathy, American Society of Anesthetists (President), Editor of "Anesthesiology."





Urology

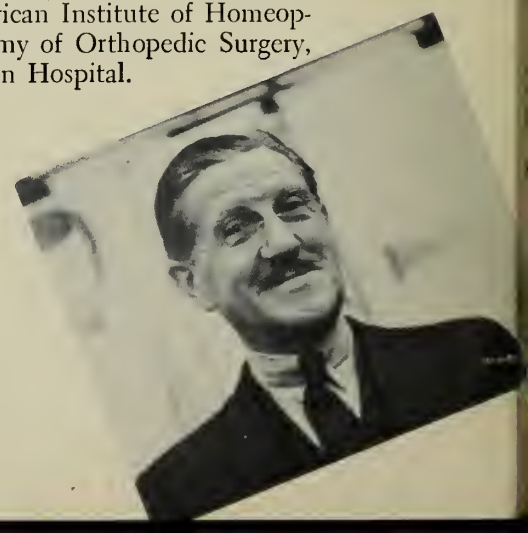
LEON T. ASHCRAFT,
Ph.B., A.M., M.D., F.A.C.S.

He will be remembered for his classical lectures, his interesting operative clinics, the sincere interest he showed toward the students and, of course, because he was above all a true gentleman. Ph.B., Dickinson College, 1887; M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1890; Pi Upsilon Rho, Urologist to Hahnemann Hospital.

Orthopedics

JOHN A. BROOKE,
A.M., M.D., F.A.C.S., F.A.C.O.S.

His friendliness and clarity of speech and expression made Orthopedics a pleasant and interesting part of the curriculum. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1896; Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania Homeopathic Medical Society, American Institute of Homeopathy, American Academy of Orthopedic Surgery, Surgeon to Hahnemann Hospital.



Otolaryngology

JOSEPH V F. CLAY,
M.D., F.A.C.S., D.Sc.

He taught us to think logically concerning the anatomy and diseases of the ear. An important course was made simple and easy to comprehend. M.D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1906; Alpha Sigma, American Board of Otolaryngology, Philadelphia Homeopathic Medical Society, Pennsylvania State Medical Society, Philadelphia Society for Clinical Research.

Neurology

EDWARD A. STEINHILBER, M.D.

His kindly, understanding attitude toward his patients impressed us. We learned through his association that a well-equipped physician must be physically, morally and spiritually sound. His Friday afternoon clinics were superb! M. D., Hahnemann Medical College, 1909; Phi Alpha Gamma, Neurologist to Hahnemann Hospital.

OUR RESPECTS

To our parents, who during the past four years have been so steadfastly loyal to us, and who provided, for the most part, the means for our education. As we leave this college, at a time when we, as doctors, will be such a vital part of our society, we pause to think of the sacrifices that have been made for our sake.

We are, therefore, in this stormy year, eager to prove to them that their faith and finances were not unwisely invested. To them we offer this book as a small measure of our appreciation.

The Class of 1943.

THE OATH

I SWEAR by Apollo the physician, and Æsculapius & Health & All-heal & all the gods & goddesses that according to my ability & judgement,

I WILL KEEP THIS OATH & this stipulation-to reckon him who taught me this Art equally dear to me as my parents to share my substance with him & relieve his necessities if required; to look upon his offspring in the same footing as my own brothers, & to teach them this Art if they shall wish to learn it,

WITHOUT FEE OR STIPULATION & that by precept lecture, & every other mode of instruction I will impart a knowledge of the Art to my own sons, & those of my teachers, & to disciples bound by a stipulation & oath

ACCORDING TO THE LAW OF MEDICINE but to none others, I will follow the system of regimen which according to my ability & judgement, I consider

FOR THE BENEFIT OF MY PATIENTS & abstain from whatever is deleterious & mischievous. I will give no deadly medicine to any one if asked nor suggest any such counsel; & in like manner I will not give to a woman a pessary to produce abortion.

WITH PURITY & WITH HOLINESS I WILL PASS MY LIFE & PRACTICE MY ART I will not cut persons laboring under the stone, but will leave this to be done by men who are practitioners of this work. Into whatever houses I enter, I will go into them for the benefit of the sick, & will abstain from every voluntary act of mischief & corruption; AND FURTHER from the seduction of females or males of freemen & slaves. Whatever in connection with my professional practice or not in connection with it, I see or hear, in the life of men, which ought not to be spoken of abroad, I WILL NOT DIVULGE as reckoning that all such should be kept secret While I continue to keep this Oath unviolated, may it be granted to me to enjoy life & the practice of the Art respected by all men in all times!

But should I trespass & violate this Oath may the reverse be my lot!

AFFILIATED HOSPITALS

Philadelphia General Hospital

On Friday mornings at P.G.H., during our Junior year, we had our first glimpse at that part of Pathology known as Autopsy. The unfortunate dead gave up their secrets to us under the proficient and expert demonstrations of Drs. Favorite, Fisher and Cook, and many others at P.G.H.

This hospital is the oldest in America, and is the largest in Philadelphia. It was at one time called "Blockley," a name spoken glibly by some of our professors, and which baffled us for many a day. It was a pleasure to study where the clinical material was so available and varied.

St. Luke's Hospital

The surgery section of the Senior Class spent Saturday afternoons listening to the world-famous Dr. Roman present interesting surgical clinics. On our last day there, we were given an examination that had most of us hanging on the ropes.

Dr. Redman demonstrated to the Senior Pediatric section how to apply the vast amount of didactic material he had presented to us during our Junior year. He showed us many puzzling cases, and then, with the aid of the young and able Dr. Agerty, went on to establish a sound diagnosis.

Allentown State Hospital

The inmates of the Allentown State Hospital were delighted when the traditional visit of the Hahnemann Senior Class was advanced several months due to the accelerated war program. Each group viewed the other with mutual amusement as we made a tour of the wards and grounds.

Clinics were presented to the students by Drs. Hoffmann, Rossman, Reiser, Frosch, and Lindenfeld. In addition, short quiz sections were given each afternoon to determine the extent to which our group was grasping the subject. We shall never forget "Superman" and "Shirley Temple," and it was rumored that only one Senior bought a share of stock in the hospital from some of the high-pressure manics.

Municipal Hospital

The Senior Class of Hahnemann was fortunate to have the opportunity to study communicable diseases at this hospital. It is the oldest and one of the largest of its kind in the Western Hemisphere.

Under the able tutelage of Dr. Pascal Lucchesi and our own Dr. Noon, we saw cases of measles, chicken pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and many other contagious diseases we rarely saw at Hahnemann. Here we fortified our impressions of these diseases with clinical observations of symptoms and results of treatment. The few periods at Municipal were well spent indeed.

When a diagnosis has been reached, all of the symptoms and signs must be compatible with it; otherwise, the chances are that it is incorrect.

When there is an apparent conflict between the subjective and objective symptoms, the latter have greater weight in pointing to the diagnosis.

A diagnosis of a single disease is more likely to be correct than a diagnosis of more than one disease, provided that it suffices to explain all the symptoms and signs present.

When two diseases are possibilities, with apparently equal evidence in favor of each, the chances favor the commoner of the two.

Diagnoses reached by exclusion are dangerous and are apt to be incorrect.

Do not change a diagnosis reached after careful consideration without very cogent reasons.

George Blumer.

When in doubt about a diagnosis, go back over the history.

Maurice Richardson.

No diagnosis based on clinical evidence need be changed, or should be changed, merely because it is not supported by laboratory findings.

Winthrop Wetherbee, Jr.

A good physician is one who uses the least number of laboratory procedures to arrive at the correct conclusion. Nowadays "putting the patient through the mill" is not infrequently confused with thoroughness.

Soma Weiss.

Correct diagnosis depends upon what enters the doctor's head as possible, and on what his head does to sift the possibilities after they have entered it, as well as on the recognition of signs by physical examination. To throw open the mind's door and allow all disease to enter into consideration each time that we are called to a bedside is foolish in the attempt, and impossible in the performance. Each case should lead us to arrange before the mind's eye a selected group of reasonable probable causes for the symptoms complained of and for the signs discovered. What we select should depend upon the clues furnished us by the patient himself, or by the results of our own examination.

Richard Cabot.

Medicine is to be learned only by experience; 'tis not an inheritance; it cannot be revealed. Learn to see, learn to hear, learn to feel, learn to smell, and know that by practice alone can you become expert.

William Osler.

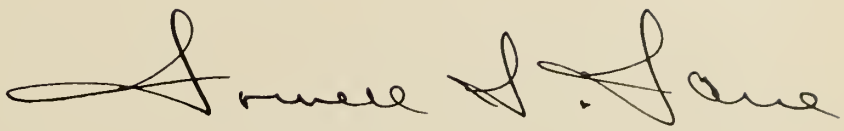
Diagnosis is, then, a summary of the probabilities in a medical situation. Viewing the entire field, it takes into consideration as much of etiology, pathology, morbid physiology, emotional and behavior reactions, prognostic indications, and therapeutic possibility as it reasonably can.

W. R. Houston.

In medicine, even more than in surgery, diagnosis demands a sufficiency of facts, truthfully recorded, intelligently sifted, and viewed without bias or prejudgment.

Charles L. Greene.

DIAGNOSTIC HINTS



The principal duty of the vast majority of physicians is the treatment of disease. Accurate diagnosis is, and will continue to be, the key to intelligent therapy. The accelerated pace of the advancement in medical science during recent years renders the necessity for careful diagnosis more vital than ever, as recognizable disease entities become more numerous and mere symptom complexes of undetermined etiology decrease in frequency.

Diagnosis must consist of much more than the mere labeling of disease if it is to be of appreciable aid to prognosis and treatment; it should embody, whenever possible, clinical, physiological, anatomical and etiological components. Although there are still many gaps to be filled, present-day medical knowledge is such that at least several of these components may be supplied in a considerable group of diseases.

The science and art of diagnosis must be based on more than mere generalizations which often have a tendency to be rather superficial in character. Clinical dicta, maxims or axioms applying to specific diseases are modified to some extent by a variety of factors such as the locale, the type of patient and the scope of practice encountered by the individual physician. From the accumulated experience of discerning clinicians, however, a number of basic diagnostic principles have evolved. An attempt has been made to collect and set forth a few of these fundamental rules or principles, which appear to have a rather general application and may act as signposts along the road to a logical diagnostic conclusion.

To our Newest Members:

To the class of 1943 goes the unique distinction of being the first class to have left Hahnemann in less than four years in the past half century—and yet to have had as complete a course as any class during this period. Welcoming its members to their ranks, the 2500 other Hahnemann alumni take pride in these, their newest brothers—and hope that the rush and bustle of the past few years of the accelerated program have not prevented the development of a fondness for, and loyalty to Hahnemann that their more leisurely predecessors possess.

Come what may in the troubled years to come, your Alumni Association will do its best to stand firm as a central bond between the individual alumnus and our Alma Mater, that the mutual interest of all may be best served.

With all best wishes now and in the years to come,

Most sincerely yours,

Executive Secretary.

Carl C. Fischer

Alpha Sigma Fraternity had its origination as the Alpha Chapter in the New York Homeopathic Medical College in 1893 where it flourished until 1938. In the year 1897, the Beta Chapter was organized at this college. Soon after, a number of other chapters were organized, and Alpha Sigma was well represented in at least fourteen other medical schools. Most of these became nonexistent when medical education became standardized and regulated by the American Medical Association.

PHI ALPHA

One of the oldest of existing national medical fraternities, Phi Alpha Gamma was founded March 25, 1894, at the New York Medical College. In 1895 the organization secured a national charter.

This year marks the forty-sixth anniversary of the Gamma Chapter which was chartered at the Hahnemann Medical College by the national organization in January of 1897.

PHI DELTA

BETA ZETA CHAPTER

The Phi Delta Epsilon Medical Fraternity was founded October 13, 1904, at the Cornell University School of Medicine. Its aim, then as now, was to bring about a greater solidarity among medical men by promoting social and scientific endeavor while at school and after graduation. As time went on, more and more chapters were founded at the various medical schools throughout the country and Canada and the fraternity grew in strength, both in numbers and spirit.

The Hahnemann Chapter (Beta Zeta) of the Phi Delta Epsilon Fraternity, when organized March 8, 1929, consisted of only 10 men. In selecting new members, a high scholastic record and personal attributes play a leading role. Meetings are held every month and invariably include a discussion of some phase of medical science. In short, medicine and its mastery is one of the foremost goals of our endeavor.

Yet, the saying "all work and no play makes for a dull day" has not been forgotten. Several large dances and many social gatherings are held throughout the year. These are often planned in conjunction with the other three chapters in the city, and the Graduate Club.

The year 1943 finds Phi Delta Epsilon fully confident of the future in spite of the drums of war. Its chapters in the various medical schools now number 59. In addition to the undergraduate chapters, there are 20 Graduate Clubs scattered throughout the nation, and these serve as a link in carrying on the bonds of friendship and medical effort started in student days. Today, in a period of strife and war, our members throughout the nation are enrolled in the medical services of all our military establishments. All are anxious and are striving to do their share in our country's call to duty.

The future is bright. Our nation will succeed. To those members of the Fraternity, let them always be guided by their motto, "FACTA NON VERBA" (Deeds, not words).

Vertebra Quarta of the Pi Upsilon Rho is celebrating its forty-second active year at Hahnemann Medical College. Pi Upsilon Rho was secretly organized as the Ustion Society in 1876 at the University of Chicago and is the oldest national medical fraternity in the country, a national charter being secured in 1901.

Service to humanity through medicine and a cultivation of fraternal and social fellowship are the principles to which Pi Upsilon Rho is dedicated. Many of the alumni of the Vertebra Quarta of Pi Upsilon Rho have achieved these goals and their accomplishments serve as an inspiration.

The Phi Lambda Kappa Fraternity at the Hahnemann Medical College is the Alpha Beta Chapter. This chapter was organized in 1926 by Dr. William Klinman who is at present actively engaged on the medical staff at Hahnemann.

Other "Phi Lam" men who are members of the faculty are Drs. Almes, Bishow, Fiterman, Lipsitz, Messey, Silverman and Weinstock. These men have been contributing their services in the Medical, Therapeutic, Gastro-Enterological, Genito-Urinary and Orthopedics departments.

Active in the "Fight for Victory" are Captains Messey and Fiterman as well as our more recent graduates who are serving in the Army, Navy and Air Corps.

Founded in 1920 at the Cornell University Medical School, Lambda Phi Mu has flourished as an active medical organization in the Americas and in several European countries.

The primary aim of the fraternity is to foster good fellowship among members of the great field of medicine, with scholastic and social stability as close running-mates. These aims having been fulfilled, attention is then directed to the broadening of the medical intellect by contact with men who are outstanding in their respective fields which are directly or indirectly related to medicine.

By following a regimen as has been outlined, an attempt is made to mold men who will coincide more closely with our concept of a perfect physician.

The Pi Sigma Mu Fraternity was founded three years ago through the efforts of the several enthusiastic students whose ancestors were cultured in Poland. Thus, the organization brings together those of Polish extraction and thereby offers them the opportunity of regaining some of the elegance and grace characteristic of their forefathers.

Emphasis is primarily placed upon medical training, the object being to broaden each member's knowledge of this great science. Upperclassmen are pledged to render aid to underclassmen who are confronted with scholastic problems. Monthly dinner-meetings are held to which are invited prominent physicians who relate their many experiences concerning the practice of medicine. As a result of this plan, Pi Sigma Mu members are better prepared to establish themselves securely in society, thereby spreading the glory of their Alma Mater.

STUDENT INSTITUTE

Synopsis of the Constitution of the Student Institute of the Hahnemann Medical College

Responsive to a sincere desire for a real democratic expression in all phases of student relationships—with one another, with faculty members and administrative officers—the Student Institute of the Hahnemann Medical College has herein set forth, within the limitations of its written constitution, its guiding by-laws, its regulatory measures, its obligations and its responsibilities.

The meetings shall be conducted aeeording to Robert's rules of order.

The members of the institute shall consist of a president, a vice-president, a secretary, and a treasurer of the Student Institute, the presidents of the freshman, the sophomore, the junior, and the senior classes, a student representative from every class, and the president of the girls' club; any member being liable to expulsion as pointed out in the constitution.

Every class shall elect by a majority vote of its personnel—a president, a vice-president, a seeretary, a treasurer, and a Student Institute representative. The junior class shall, at the conclusion of its junior year, nominate from the students of the junior class candidates for the offices of the president, secretary, vice-president, and treasurer of the ruling body of the Student Institute. From these candidates the aforesaid officers shall be elected by a majority vote of the students of all classes. The term of every office shall run from the first day of the next academic session to the last day of said session.

The meetings of the Student Institute are to be typed and bound and passed on to the succeeding secretary of the body.

Every active member whose dues shall have been paid in full and whose grades shall receive the approval of the Medical Council shall be eligible to accept a nomination to any office for two consecutive years. At least two persons shall be nominated for every office to be filled. Elections of all officers shall bc by written ballots, audited by two tellers appointed by the president of the Student Institute who shall then countersign the count if it be correct. The votes must be held for three days by the secretary of the Institute.

All committees shall be appointed by the president unless the Student Institute orders otherwise. The president shall appoint the representative and offieers of the senior Medic and of the annual Blue and Gold Ball committees. The personnel of said committees, thus appointed by the president, shall be approved by the Student Institute.

The Student Institute shall request the sum of two dollars every school year from the caution fee of every student for the purpose of discharging general and maintenance expenses. The Student Institute shall appropriate for the senior class picture every year a sum not to exceed $100.00.

The body shall supervise all student activities; pass judgment upon all class or student grievances; request special vacations. The body reserves the right to govern the activities of the Student Body and is answerable only to the Medical Council.

The girl students shall eleet two of their group to represent them in the capacity of president and secretary-treasurer. However, said offices shall not be held by freshmen. The president of the girls' group shall be a duly constituted member of the Student Institute.

Every member of the Student Institute shall have a gold key attesting to his membership. Every additional year's membership in the Student Institute shall be represented by a diamond.

Senior class members of the basketball team, orchestra, and the glee club who have been members for at least three years shall be given suitable keys at the end of their senior year. The Editor, Business Manager, and Managing Editor of the "Medic" shall also receive keys. The Student Institute shall bear the expense.

All announcements made by the Medical Council in behalf of the Student Body shall be referred first to the Student Institute before posting. All complaints from the Student Body shall be referred, first, in writing to the Student Institute before formal submission to the Medical Counеil.

WALLACE K. KRATZ

"Wally" was our friend, counsellor and sincerest critic. We could get along without our textbooks, notes and microscopes but not without "W. K. K." He was indispensable! Kindness and sincerity, intermixed with his choice bit of good-natured witticism, made him one of Hahnemann's most beloved personages. And so, one hundred and twenty-six men are graduated, better men and better doctors because they knew "Our Wally."

''FRONT

CLARA C. FISCHER

"The First Lady of the College." Even before we saw "235 North 15th Street" we knew of Miss Fischer. Her uncanny ability to call us by name on our first meeting impressed us. As time progressed we came to recognize her as "the front office." Those well-known initials "C. C. F." were a constant reminder that she was on the job.

MRS. MELLITA TURNER

One half of a medical student's knowledge depends on what he reads. A well-informed, efficient librarian is a "must" on the personnel of any medical college. Our Mrs. Turner more than adequately fills this position. She was always willing to give whatever assistance we required. We appreciate her sincere interest. A vote of thanks from us to you, Mrs. Turner.

OFFICES''

ALICE C. BRITT

A nicer person than Miss Britt we do not know. No favor that we might ask of her was too great, except maybe to get our mail before twelve noon. From her very first day in "the cage" her popularity has grown rapidly. Her pleasant smile and pleasing personality always made the day a sunny one.

TRADITION

The strict codes of manufacturing excellence and ethical promotion which characterize Wyeth policy have been dictated by a deeply-rooted sense of responsibility to the art of medicine. They yield the secret of continuous and reliable service during eighty-two years.

These self-imposed standards have even a greater significance than merely to supply reason for endurance and the successful fulfillment of past obligations . . . they are the necessary stabilizing influences in the progressive program of today, dedicated as it is to scientific research and therapeutic advance. They represent experience and dependability. They are the traditions of Wyeth.

Why MEAD JOHNSON & COMPANY COOPERATES WITH THE COUNCILS

Voluntarily, we market only Council-Accepted products because we have faith in the principles for which the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry (and the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association) stand.

We have witnessed the three decades during which the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry has brought order out of chaos in the pharmaceutical field. For over thirty years it has stood —alone and unafraid—between the medical profession and unprincipled makers of proprietary preparations.

The Councils verify the composition and analysis of products, and substantiate the claims of manufacturers. By standardizing nomenclature and disapproving therapeutically suggestive trade names, they discourage shotgun therapy and self-medication. They are the only bodies representing the medical profession that check inaccurate and unwarranted claims on circulars and advertising as well as on packages and labels.

The Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry, through N. N. R. and in other ways, augments the work of the U. S. Pharmacopeia, testing and evaluating scores of new products which appear during the 10-year interim between Pharmacopoeial revisions.

We are conscious of the fact that these A. M. A. Councils have at times been criticized both in and out of the medical profession. We hold no brief for perfection in any human agency. But we subscribe to the fact that the work of the Councils is sound in principle; and in this high-pressure day and age, we shudder to think of a return to the unrestrained patent-medicine-quack-nostrum conditions of three decades ago, when there was chaos instead of Council.

You can dream, can't you?

Suppose, Mr. Editor, when you settled down on your yearbook you discovered that you had on your staff four cracker-jack artists who had designed hundreds of leading books, several experienced layout men, a seasoned yearbook expert who was qualified to discuss your ideas and problems with you, several people who knew the ins and outs of engraving, printing, and offset—would you produce an outstanding yearbook? What could stop you?

Cease dreaming and see CAMPUS which has all the above assets. They are specialists with the background of wide yearbook experience and equipped in every way to assist you and your staff produce an outstanding book.
